PROMETEIA - Prometeia is a provider of consulting services and software solutions focused on Enterprise Risk & Performance Management. Since the '90s, the company's activities have increasingly focused on the integration of research, analysis, consultancy and software development. Tech proposition, quantitative advisory, training and economic research: this distinctive mix of services has made Prometeia a leading company in Europe in risk and wealth management solutions, business consulting and advisory services for institutional investors. Prometeia's approach to Enterprise Risk Management is based on the development of quantitative models and analysis methodologies. The production of highly specialized software applications leverages leading technologies, the knowledge of our matter experts and our ability to respond to growing regulatory demands. A deep understanding of international markets, derived from proprietary economic research, adds an unique element to Prometeia's value proposition.
