Study in Germany

German higher education institutions enjoy an excellent reputation all over the world. German degrees carry great prestige while teaching and research provide impulses for innovation and progress. Many universities cooperate with industry companies to ensure you benefit from a practise-oriented education that is relevant for the labour market.

More than 400 public higher education institutions offer in total almost 18,000 degree programmes, including more than 1,300 international degree programmes conducted entirely or partly in English. Germany's higher education landscape offers you great choices!

Webinar Series "Study in Germany"

The webinar series consists in online presentations by 15 German universities and educational institutions followed by Q&A-sessions. A headset is needed. You can ask questions via chat. The webinar series addresses audiences in Spain, Italy and Greece. The webinars are conducted in English.

You need to register for each day of the webinar series separately. You can join the series any time. Each day is introduced by a 10-min. presentation on studying in Germany and funding opportunities.
